

The podcast episodes available at www.sab.co.za were recorded and are being made available by SAB solely for information purposes and are general in nature. The information, statements, comments, views and opinions expressed or provided in any podcast, including by speakers who are not officers, employees or agents of SAB are not necessarily those of SAB and may not be current. SAB does not make any representation or warranty as to the accuracy or completeness of any of the content contained in these podcasts, nor does SAB offer any sort of legal, financial or other advice in the podcast content. Any liability therefore is expressly denied. Certain of the statements made in these podcasts may have been forward-looking in nature, and based on current expectations and views of future events and developments, and are naturally subject to uncertainty and changes in circumstances. SAB does not undertake any obligation to provide any form of update, amendment, change or correction to any of the information, statements, comments, views or opinions set forth in these podcast episodes.